

THE SYDNEY MONTHLY OVERLAND MAIL.

By the Columbian.

SUMMARY OF MONTHLY NEWS,
FROM 13TH DECEMBER, 1859, TO 12TH JANUARY, 1860.

Tuesday, 13th, to Friday, 16th December.

There have been but few incidents of a noteworthy character since our Summary for the Malta was made up.

Parliament has been sitting, but has done no great amount of business.

The Pastoral Leases Bill has, however, gone safely through the Lower House, and the Legislative Council has agreed to meet specially on Tuesday for the passing of this bill. Its enactment in due time is, therefore, pretty sure. Its effect, as will be remembered, is simply to enable for another year the existing pastoral leases so as to allow the general settlement of the Land question to pass over until next session.

It has been rumoured for some time past, that the passing of this bill was to be followed by an attempt to eject the present Cabinet. How this is to be done—if it is to be done at all—is not quite clear.

But scarcely an evening passes without strong evidence of antagonism against the present Ministry, not only on the part of some of the members who supported the late Administration, but of members who were opposed to it. No sooner had the Squatting Leases Bill been introduced by the Assembly than there was a motion by Mr. Parkes to shelve the Estimates until the Government should have brought in a bill indicative of its land policy. This motion was lost on division by a majority of 16 to 10.

This result, however, may have ensued because it was thought premature, or because it was thought desirable to meet Ministers with a vote more decidedly adverse from a different quarter. The victory on particular division must by no means be looked upon as conclusive.

As we have before pointed out, the principal hope of security to Mr. Forster and his colleagues lies in the vote of organization which the Opposition will give. The difficulty of forming from among themselves such a Cabinet as would have the slightest chance of commanding a working majority.

The Assembly has been expected to the principle of subsidizing the proposed submarine telegraph from Australia to Java, but they are not agreed as to the terms of the subsidy, or as to the course which it would be best to take.

The complaints as to the state of the magistracy are becoming more and more general. It is plain that the commission must be revised and purged. The present Ministry stands pledged to this task if it should remain in office. Any other Ministry which supersedes it must do the same thing. A very difficult and unpleasant job it will be found.

The various National Schools in and around Sydney have been closed for the Christmas holidays. The results of these examinations have in all cases been highly satisfactory.

The railway directors are progressing in the right direction. It has been for some time announced that return tickets would be issued on Saturdays, for the same price as single tickets on other days. This has now been determined to render the return ticket available until the evening of the following Monday. Thus, now, the passenger has the chance, without paying extra fare, of a couple of days in the country. It is to be hoped that a general reduction of railway fares may be soon looked for.

The last items of English news, received by telegraph via Aden, have created a good deal of sensation the more so from their necessarily very meagre character. But we must not expect more than we can until next mail. One effect, it is hoped and believed, will be to expedite a determination of the pending questions as to colonial defenses.

We have before recorded the fact of a publican named Williams having shot a soldier named Heffernan in a fit of jealousy. Heffernan had so far recovered as to appear at the Court yesterday, when Williams was committed for trial. One Luke Gilmore was also committed for trial, because of his having stood by when Heffernan was shot, without making any effort to prevent it; but it appeared from Heffernan's own statement that although Williams had been uttering threats and handling his revolver a good deal, no one expected he would use it.

The Judges of the Supreme Court have conferred, upon all points, the decision of the Chief Justice, granting certificates to Messrs. Purkis, Lambert, and dismissing, with costs, the appeal of the opposing creditors.

A public tea meeting was held yesterday evening at the Temperance Hall.

A new Congregational Church has been opened at Campbelltown.

A letter on Malta has been delivered by Captain D. C. F. Scott, before St. Michael's Parochial Association.

The members of St. Mary's Catholic Literary Society have determined upon having a steamboat excursion on the 20th January, and have appointed a committee to make arrangements.

An unsuccessful attempt has been made by Mr. Cooper to get a sum of £300 placed upon the East and West for the maintenance of chaplains at the goldfields. This was looked upon as an attempt to do in the thin end of the wedge—a first step towards a piece-meal revocation of the decision against an extension of State aid which the Assembly has not only pronounced, but has since once re-affirmed after full and mature consideration.

A man named William Curtis has died suddenly from the effect of injuries to the brain sustained by a fall down a ship's hatch.

An elderly woman, named Elizabeth Lees, died suddenly yesterday afternoon from the rupture of a blood vessel.

The Executive Chamber of Commerce has resolved to petition for a repeal of the Tonnage Duties. Based upon the ground that to charge these duties upon the commerce of their port and not upon other ports of the colony, is unjust.

There has been a very violent thunderstorm in the Hunter River district. The force of the wind was such as to uproot many houses in Matland and its vicinity, and otherwise to do a good deal of damage to property. Some small houses were even blown down. A Mrs. Maynard, of East Matland, who was at the time an invalid, has died in consequence of the fright she received from the iron roof of the house she inhabited being blown off by the storm.

The Supreme Court has decided to-day that the Municipal Council of Sydney is bound to supply water from its mains to any citizen who applies for the same, and is ready to pay the payment, &c. There had been a refusal to supply water unless certain rates were paid by a previous occupation were first paid, but the Court has held that this is no legal ground for refusal, and has granted a mandamus to compel a compliance with the application.

Saturday, 17th, to 24th December.

There is little doing just now. Christmas—merry Christmas—is at hand, and people in general are more inclined towards idleness than to any other business or party squabbling.

But the past week has not been eventless. It has been distinguished, we regret to say, by a more than usual record of sudden and violent deaths.

There has been a case of a man named John Rubins, the Solomon group, who had been the scene of a cannibal atrocity. The schooner Pearl of Antineum (formerly a well-known yacht in Sydney harbour), had been captured and burned at that island, and her crew, eight in number, besides the captain, had been killed and eaten. An attempt was made to capture the Clarence Packet, by which this news was brought, and it was understood, also, that a similar attempt was to be made upon the steamer Oberon. Two men, left on shore from the cutter had been murdered, and the plan was to decoy the rest of the Oberon on shore, under the pretence that these murdered men were to be seen. Some effort ought surely to be made to ward the crew of this vessel, if there be yet time, and to administer a wholesome chastisement to the bloodthirsty tribe of Rubins.

A lad of twelve, named Robert McCall, has also been drowned while bathing in a water hole, near the Waterloo Mills.

William Burgess, aged sixty, has been killed in consequence of having fallen from the derrick which he was driving, while in a state of intoxication, and of his wheel passing over him.

being cast from a horse in Shepherd's Paddock and dragged along the ground with one of his feet in the stirrup.

Several sudden deaths in the interior have also been reported.

There have been two murders—a man named Martin has been killed at Oatley by one Thos. Jones. Martin had been cohabiting with Thompson's wife, but the murder—effected by a single blow from an axe—was committed after Mrs. Thompson had returned to her home. A Mrs. Bailey has been shot to death by a man named Jones, employed on the works of the Northern Railway, with whom she was cohabiting.

The Parliament has adjourned until late in January, in order to give the whole of that month having first been given.

Ministers seem to be gathering strength rather than losing it. The only motion during the week which has imperilled their position was that of Mr. Robertson, asserting the imperative necessity that the Minister for Public Works should be selected from the Assembly. The Premier admitted the expediency of such a selection, but relied upon the peculiar circumstances under which he had accepted office as an excuse for the course he had taken. This was evidently deemed sufficient, for the previous question was carried by a very large majority.

The debate upon this motion ran over two nights, being an adjournment on the first occasion by the casting vote of the Speaker. Sir Daniel Cooper told the House on this occasion that if he persisted in such long sittings some member of greater physical strength must be placed in the Opposition.

The motion was lost on division by a majority of 16 to 10. This result, however, may have ensued because it was thought premature, or because it was thought desirable to meet Ministers with a vote more decidedly adverse from a different quarter. The victory on particular division must by no means be looked upon as conclusive.

Saturday, 24th, to 31st December, 1859.

This has been a holiday week. The people of New South Wales have celebrated Christmas thoroughly. As they "work hard," so they "play hard."

There was a fine display of good things in the streets and market on the evening of this day—Christmas Eve. The season had been rather dry, and the weather was not so much better, so, even of these, than had been expected.

The rain, so long prayed for, began on Christmas Day in right good earnest, and continued without intermission, from the rising of the sun until its setting. People who had set their minds upon an excursion to the waterfalls or another, began to fear that they were fairly in for a week's wait. But Monday, the 26th, was as fine a day as could have been chalked out for the most fastidious picnicer.

Monday, therefore, was a day of universal enjoyment. The people were everywhere away from home in search of amusement. There was a regatta on the lagoon, races at Cook's River, a great cricket match in the Domain, and all manner of amusements as those who were not so tired, besides the usual Watson's Bazaar. The trains were well filled, and parties of pleasure were to be found wending their way in all directions, particularly towards the various lakes and rivers within the municipalities of Waverley and Randwick.

In the country they have been equally merry at this merry season. At Matland there have been races. In other quarters, such amusements as suited local circumstances were going on.

Now have the more grave celebrations of old Christmas been forgotten. The new church at Balmoral, dedicated to St. Mary, was opened for Divine service on Christmas Day. A sermon being preached on the occasion by the Lord Bishop of Sydney. The members of the Christian Young Men's Association also had what may now be considered as their annual meeting.

The children of the Randwick Asylum, were, by the Lord Bishop, provided with a substantial Christmas dinner. Recently, Miss Mary Provost gave an evening for the benefit of this excellent theatre, &c., but when the expenses of the theatre, &c., came to be considered, the Asylum, instead of benefiting, was found to be in debt. This deficiency, however, was kindly made up by the Lord Bishop.

Tuesday was pretty well celebrated as a holiday also. The shops were opened, but with very little business was done. It rained hard in the evening, but the day was fine, and the enjoyment of most of the people was unimpeded.

It was on this day that the children of the Sunday schools in connection with the Pitt-street Congregational Church went, together with their parents and friends, to the Fairy Bower, at Manly Beach, where they had a joyous time of it.

In the evening of the same day, the members of the St. Benedict's Catholic Young Men's Society had their annual tea meeting and concert at the New School of Arts.

On the same evening, also, Mr. George Thornton was duly installed as Provincial Grand Master of that branch of the Masonic Order which is under the Irish constitution.

Tuesday and Wednesday selected as a fitting day for laying the first stone of the Newtown School of Arts. This ceremony was performed by His Excellency the Governor-General.

There has been a good deal of rain during the week, and it seems to have extended pretty well into the interior. The vegetable stalls to-day show some of its beneficial results.

The Railway Commissioners have afforded every facility for excursionists during the holidays, by the issue of return tickets at single fares. The charges for the carriage of goods have also been reduced. There are one or two things, however, still to be done. A more general reduction of passenger fares is called for, and there are some measures for the safety and protection of the travellers and baggage yet wanting.

Among these is better protection from the light of sparks from the funnel. A year or two ago fire was kindled in one of the carriages by some fugitive sparks, and had nearly produced very serious results. Last week some coffin furniture was burned in like manner. There is, we believe, a patented invention (we forget whether it is English or American) for preventing accidents of this nature. Why not adopt it?

A female infant has been found floating near the North Shore, in an advanced stage of decomposition. A notice of this death, and the cause of it, was given in the mother's weakness. The poor woman was cursed with a drunken brute of a husband, named Taylor, who, to injure his wife, had been passing her time in the streets, without little subtlety, and this was the consequence. The fellow was censured by the Coroner's jury, and this sentence was most richly merited. Even if they could have awarded punishment, we should have found it difficult to carry out.

The motion by Mr. Parkes, asserting the necessity of raising local military corps for the defence of the colony, was carried by a majority of 16 to 10.

Funeral services were held last Sunday evening by the Rev. W. Cuthbertson, A.B., in the Pitt-street church, and by the Rev. S. C. Kent, at Newtown, on the occasion of the recent death of the late Mr. James, of Birmingham. Mr. James, both as an author and preacher, was one of the most distinguished and eloquent divines connected with the Congregational Dissenting churches of England. Both the sermons were listened to with great attention by crowded congregations.

The temporary Land Bill has passed, although there was a squeak first in the Upper House, where certain members were evidently bent on opposing it, and delaying it by way of showing their power. The long adjournment has been succeeded to in the evident hope that Mr. Forster will bring in his Land Bill, as he has intimated that he will do so.

The motion, however, may have ensued because it was thought premature, or because it was thought desirable to meet Ministers with a vote more decidedly adverse from a different quarter. The victory on particular division must by no means be looked upon as conclusive.

As we have before pointed out, the principal hope of security to Mr. Forster and his colleagues lies in the vote of organization which the Opposition will give. The difficulty of forming from among themselves such a Cabinet as would have the slightest chance of commanding a working majority.

beautiful music. The attendance, however, from various causes, was not so good as it ought to have been, and these ladies have consequently undertaken to repeat the entertainment next week.

The parishioners of St. Mary's, Dalmatin, have held a similar meeting, and have adopted measures for the more speedy collection of subscriptions to relieve their church from debt.

A war of words and correspondence on the subject of the tea and sugar duties is going on. The project of Mr. Macpherson is going in all directions, but it seems to have failed to attract much support. A public meeting was held on Tuesday evening, at which the subject was discussed, and it was decided to support the tea and sugar duties.

CITY OF SYDNEY.
IMPORTANT SALE.

Valuable and extensive Block of Land, with those well known commodious business premises, the OLD BANK OF AUSTRALASIA
Preliminary Notice.
RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Bank Buildings, George-street, on MONDAY, 9th February, at 11 o'clock.

All that truly valuable piece of land, having a frontage of about 49½ FEET to GEORGE-STREET, with a depth of about 77 feet extending to Jamieson-lane, to which it has also a similar frontage of 49½ feet, on which are erected those extensive premises, the OLD BANK OF AUSTRALASIA, built of brick on stone foundations, and containing wide hall and private entrance, the well known commodious banking room, eleven other apartments, with kitchens, laundries, &c.

Sanitary, bath room, (with shower and other baths), closets, &c., &c. Water is laid on throughout the building, supplying bath-room, closets, &c.

☛ In bringing a city property of such magnitude and acknowledged value into the market for unreserved competition and sale, it is scarcely necessary to direct attention to the many advantages it possesses.

Situated in the best and most improving part of Georgetown, to which it has a very large frontage, its position ranks second to none in business importance; while the premises, which, though old, with the exception of those at the rear, which are of more recent erection, are massively and most substantially built, and, with little or no alteration, are adapted for mercantile purposes, and will at once yield a large income.

The new bank premises adjoining—the extensive business premises lately erected on the site of the Old Treasury—and the other improvements in this part of Georgetown—will forcibly convince all of the rapidly increasing value and importance of the city.

Plans, showing the extent of the land and buildings, are now in course of preparation by the surveyor, Mr. Langley; and further particulars will be given in a future advertisement.

frames and gear, machinery for squaring logs of any size and length; large number of spare saws, both circular and for frames; and all other requisite gear and appliances, for carrying on large operations.

It is hardly possible, in the space of an advertisement, to do justice to, or give a detailed description of the valuable machinery of the Rooty Hill Saw Mills, the more so when it is mentioned that an amount of upwards of £15,000 has been expended on its cost, and bringing it into its present complete and efficient state. The whole of the works are now in thorough order, and are additionally valuable to contractors, steamers, and others, from the fact that they might be brought into active operation at a few hours' notice.

The Hecory Hill Estate is leasehold, having upwards of 9 years to run, at a nominal rent, and comprises an area of about 4500 ACRES of richly timbered land, numbering in it some of the finest ironbark ridges which are to be met with in the county of Cumberland. It is stimulated by competent judges that many hundreds of thousands of ironbark railway sleepers might be cut from this estate without touching any trees beyond the usual size felled for sleepers, and leaving the large trees for the more profitable purposes of lumber or for squaring for shipment to England, where there is an eager and increasing demand for the hardwood of this colony; and it must be remembered that there are now additional facilities for carrying on this trade, as the usual dead weight for bloods is being becoming scarce, and a new river is

It is unnecessary to enter into lengthy comments on the above extensive works. Bounded on one side by the Western Road, with the railway running through the estate, and a station at a convenient distance, it is a property which offers unusual advantages and opportunities for profitable working, both from the quantity and quality of its timber, and the ease by which it may be brought to market or shipped to England. In the estate of the late GEORGE MILLER, Esq., 6 Valuable Block of Land, containing 36 ACRES and 6 PERCHES, at NEWTOWN, adjoining MARYVILLE.

Title—unquestionable. Terms at sale.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by the trustees to the estate of the late George Miller, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 18th January, 1860.

A valuable block of land, containing 36 ACRES and 6 PERCHES, adjoining MARYVILLE, at NEWTOWN.

This land is distant about a quarter of a mile from the NEWTOWN CHURCH, and is perfectly level and admirably adapted for subdivision. It has three good roads, being bounded by the road leading to Uxbridge Bridge on the north-west; by George-street, Maryville, on the south-east; and by a reserved road on the south-west. It is in the market for positive sale, and is therefore well worth the attention of adjacent proprietors.

Plan on view at the Rooms.
